Innisfree is a wonderful example of Edwardian Domestic Architecture. Built as a large residence for a wealthy family, who probably had live-in staff, as it has a total of nine bedrooms.

All rooms in the house come fully furnished with authentic period furniture and antiques to give our guests a truly Edwardian Experience.

Innisfree is not resting on the past, it has been carefully decorated with rich wallpapers, splendid thick curtains, beautiful Edwardian antique furniture & appropriate light fittings.

All of our bedrooms are en-suite and are extremely well-appointed with extra complimentary facilities. All our rooms have colour TV and hospitality trays, including direct-dial phones via our hi-speed ISDN line. Hairdryers & radio alarms are available on request.

All modern needs are catered for & the house is warm and comfortable and the beds are soft & luxurious.

The house is also available for a complete let whereby the house will become yours for your family, friends or colleagues.

Throughout the year we cater for Dinner Parties, Musical Recitals, Family Gatherings and even the occasional Murder Mystery Weekend.

Should you require a Dinner Party or a Special Event we can provide an excellent menu, with superb wines & champagne and some tasteful musical accompaniment from our select & award-winning singers & musicians.

Our professional staff, all uniformed, highly trained and motivated, will ensure that your special event will be rewarding, relaxing and memorable.

If you come to Ireland for the exhilarating activities, or simply for some peace, you can rest assured that your stay at Innisfree House will provide you with all the relaxation you could ever need.

The construction is very solid, thick brick walls, lots of lovely atone enrichments to the façade by way of corner quoins, window cills and lintols over the original timber windows. These timber windows include leaded glass lights, top windows, with beautiful coloured glass. The complex roof is slated and is dominated by terra cotta ridge pieces giving a sculptural aspect to the whole house.

The interior is almost un-changed since constructed. A kitchen was moved out to the back, some extra bathrooms were added in by previous owners, but the basic floor plan on all three levels is almost exactly as when first built.

It is remarkable also that most of the lovely interiors have been un-altered and retain all their elegant cornices, doors, architraves and skirting, whilst many of the rooms still have their original fire surrounds.
